Research study: Understanding perception of musical sounds

Queen Mary Ethics of Research Committee Ref: QMREC2352a

We would like to invite you to be part of this research project, if you would like to. You should only agree to take part if you want to; it is entirely up to you. If you choose not to take part, there won't be any disadvantages for you and you will hear no more about it.

Please read the following information carefully before you decide to take part. This will tell you why the research is being done and what you will be asked to do if you take part. Please ask if there is anything that is not clear or if you would like more information. You are still free to withdraw at any time and without giving a reason.

You have been chosen to participate in this study because you are a person between 18-40 years old, and to your knowledge do not have any neurological or hearing problems.

This study explores how our brain encodes musical sounds such as those produced by acoustic and electronic instruments. The study is completely non-invasive and is not expected to cause any harm or distress. You will hear various sounds through headphones and be asked to make decisions about them. We will also ask you to fill out a short questionnaire about your musical aptitude and auditory history. The entire study will take roughly 30 minutes. The study will take place online.

It is up to you to decide whether to take part. If you do decide to take part, you will be given this information sheet to keep and be asked to sign a Consent Form.
